A- AI in the Classroom: Real Teachers in a Changing World

Riverside Secondary, Port Coquitlam

Teral Short & Lauren Botzlen - SD43

Please bring "a laptop, activities, lessons, units, classroom profiles, questions, and concerns."

This 90-minute Pro-D workshop explores how the effective and intentional use of AI can help educators plan for all learners through differentiation and Universal Design for Learning. Participants will examine how AI supports planning, assessment, and resource creation while preserving valuable face-to-face time with students. We will also discuss strategies for crafting effective prompts and share real examples of how AI has enhanced our work in both K-12 and post-secondary education. By integrating AI thoughtfully, educators can meet students where they are, adapting instruction in real time while maintaining the human connections that define meaningful teaching and learning.

Lauren and Teral are experienced educators passionate about inclusive, student-centered teaching. Lauren has nearly 30 years of experience in middle and secondary education, specializing in science and math, and believes in cross-curricular learning that connects ideas meaningfully. Teral has 15 years of experience in alternate education and currently mentors pre-service teachers at Simon Fraser University. Both value differentiation, relationships, and the BC Core Competencies as foundations for effective learning. They are exploring AI to enhance planning, feedback, and productivity, allowing them to focus on what matters most: creating equitable, engaging, and responsive learning environments where all students can thrive.

Brynn is passionate about helping young people develop tools to navigate life's challenges with more calm, confidence, and resilience. She has developed and delivered a range of professional development workshops for educators—including music-and-yoga-based sessions for Early Childhood Educators. She has also presented "Yoga in the classroom" at many Teacher Association Conferences and schools; empowering hundreds of teachers to bring simple, meaningful practices into their classrooms. Her goal is to support both teachers and students through techniques that can be used throughout the school day, planting lasting seeds for emotional regulation and well-being.
